

WILL COUNTY
RED CROSS
QUOTA $72,394

During the past year the American Red Cross has been called upon to meet many gigantic calls for service in emergency situations which could not have been handled had not the American people responded with their money and time so generously in the 1952 Red Cross Fund Campaign. In March the Red Cross will again make its annual appeal for funds to every American to help other people who have need of Red Cross services. The Will County Chapter Fund campaign will be headed this year by Dr. Charles W. Hoffman of Joliet who is a member of the Chapter Board of Directors and also of the Medical Advisory Committee of the Red Cross Defense Blood Program. E. B. Workman, Will County probate clerk will head the county towns and rural division.

The Chapter quota for 1953 is $72,394 part of which supports the service of Will County Chapter and the remainder the programs of the National Red Cross which underwrites disaster expenditures, the blood program and maintains all Red Cross services in U. S. military installations and hospitals throughout the world.

Added to its regular services, this year the American Red Cross has been given the job of getting sufficient blood, processing and packaging 1,000,000 units of gamma globulin for polio epidemic areas next summer and an additional 1,000,000 units for the 1953-54 program which will cost the Red Cross $7,000,000 but which may save thousands of children from the paralyzing effects of poliomyelitis until such time as the serum on which research is now being done by the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis, can be field tested and evaluated.

During the past year more than two million pints of blood were provided for the Department of Defense for Korea and other military hospitals and this program must be continued. Disasters cost the American Red Cross more than $24,000,000 last year and help to service men's families and providing constant welfare services for our armed forces throughout the world required more than one third of the whole Red Cross budget. To meet public demands it has been necessary to expand the teaching facilities for first aid, home nursing and swimming and these programs today are very important because of the big toll of highway and home accidents.

The following in this area have been named chairmen of the 1953 Fund Drive for their Townships: Mr. S. David Munson, Frankfort, Miss Caroline Tilsy-Marley, Mrs. Dean Rueckert, Mokena. Mrs. Lester Brown, New Lenox.

Mokena Business Men Put on Gala
Party For Wives

Mokena business men and their wives held a get-together and social evening last Saturday at Little Jack's in Joliet. Forty were in attendance with four members absent because of flu.

A cocktail hour preceded the dinner, which was held in a private room. Following the dinner a program was given with Everett Cooper, master of ceremonies.

The group participated in songs, and awards were given. Mrs. William Semmler and Richard Mueller received a ribbon badge for perfect attendance at meetings (in reverse) as neither one had attended a meeting. Mr. Boleman, the first president, was presented with an "outstanding" wrist watch (a toy watch taken from his own stock) and Ed Dunham, secretary, was presented with a calendar, with the dates marked wrong.

Mr. Ronan, of Ronan TV and Radio service, played back a taped recording of conversations that took place during the cocktail hour, which caused a great deal of merriment. This was quite a surprise, as no one knew the recording was being made.

It was voted that the business men would hold such a party for their wives once a year. New officers are: Elmer Cooper, president; Ed Dunham, secretary; Walter Welsch, vice president, and George Wannmacher, treasurer.

Calls From Germany

It was 1 o'clock Wednesday morning in Germany when he called.

Local Square and Folk Dancers do
Well at Urbana

Will county participants in Folk Festival activities held at Urbana recently in connection with Farm and Home Week more than came away with their share of the honors.

Both the open class square dance team and the open class folk dance team received "A" ratings, as did the square dance band and Ray Alderson of Joliet who represented the county in the open class caller division. Members of both the county open class square dance team and folk dance were: Mildred and Marie Seggebruch, Crete; Melvorne and Marian Werner, Monee; Paul Loitz, Peotone; Leslie Nissen, Beecher; Harvey Cross, Monee; Richard Lorenz, Frankfort.

Square dance band members were: Allen Klemme of Crete, and Alberta and Bernice Boicklen of Peotone.

The Rural Youth square dance team, made up of Joan Kern, New Lenox, Jean Phillips Wilmington, Janet Warning, New Lenox, Leona Grove, Wilmington, Jerry O'Connor, Wilmington, George Hall, Monee, Bill McMahon, New Lenox, and Vernon Lankenau, Peotone, received a "C" rating.

The above Rural Youths, plus Lucille Moretti and Shirley Batson of New Lenox, and Randall Bunte and Ralph Albers of Beecher, competing as the Rural Youth folk dance team, received a "B" rating.

These events were the first in the 1953 State Farm Sports Festival events. Participants at Urbana secured a total of 445 points. Points are given for participation, and in addition, an "A" rating counts 20 points, a "B" rating, 10, and a "C" rating, 5 points.

This is the first year that Will county has had an entry in either of the folk dance divisions.

Sangamon county, which defeated Will county for the all-around championship last year after Will had won three consecutive state championships, scored 410 points at Urbana.

Other state events to be held soon include district and state bowling, district and state Rural Youth basketball, and state volleyball contests.

Will county eligible bowlers will go to Pontiac February 16 to compete in a district bowling contest.

They will bowl at 1:00 along with Kendall and Grundy counties.

BURGLARS BUSY IN TINLEY PARK

On Thursday night, sometime before 2 a.m. a robbery was attempted at the INR Beatty Lumber Co. in Tinley Park. Burglars broke through a fence at the rear of the building, and prying open a door leading into the office, from the driveway. Apparently the thieves were frightened away immediately after gaining entrance, because nothing was missing. Even the heart and container, which contained some money, hadn't been taken.

Burglars entered the National Food Store, Tinley Park, Sunday, in the early hours of the morning. A bread man making his usual morning delivery, at 7:30 a.m. discovered the robbery, and notified Max Rauscher, the manager. A rear door which led into the vegetable section, had been pryed off with a crowbar and although it was broken in half, telephone wires leading into the bakery and the National were cut off at the box in back of the building. All motors of the refrigeration system were also turned off.

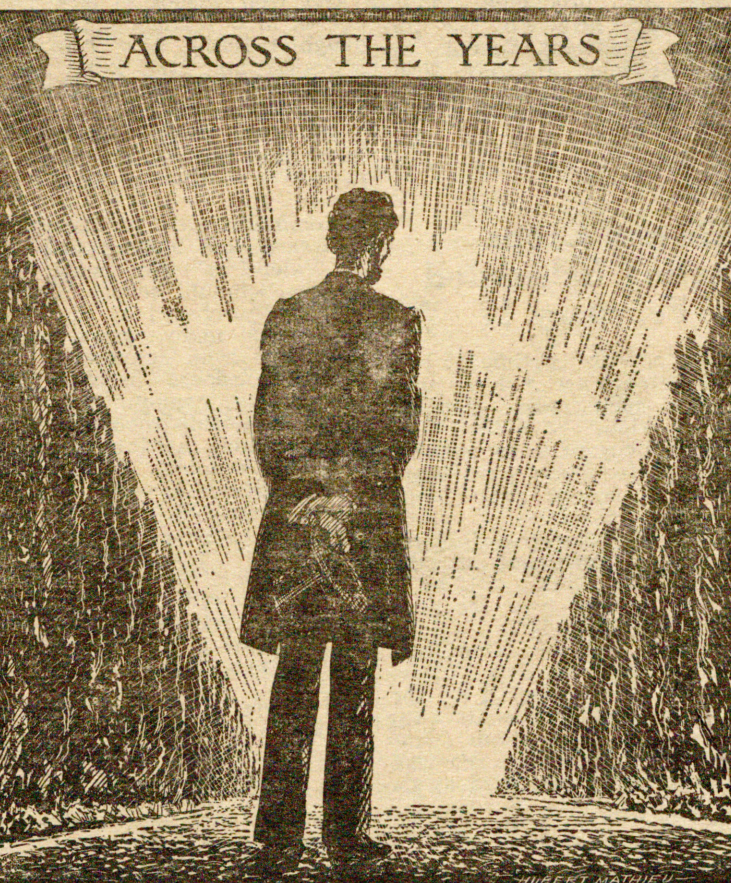

Mr. Rauscher was afraid of loss in frozen merchandise, due to defrosting, but the motors had not been off long enough to cause any damage. The usual resalable articles were taken consisting of cigarettes, liquor, butter, hams and turkeys. Loss was estimated at about $2,500-$3,500.

Tinley Fire Dept.
Dance Nets $2,300

The 53rd annual dance of the Tinley Park Volunteer Fire Department, which was held Saturday night, January 31, at Saenger hall, was a big event in fact, the greatest success in the 53-year history of the Tinley Park fire department. People from all over the area crowded the dance hall, and everybody had a most enjoyable time.

Net proceeds from the dance amounted to more than $2,300, which will be used for the upkeep of trucks, supplies, repairs and the many other items needed to maintain a first class fire department.

The Tinley Park Volunteer Fire department wants to express its hearty thanks to every one for the fine spirit of cooperation shown on this occasion.

OUR DEMOCRACY—by Mat

"We cannot escape history...The fiery trial through which we pass will light us down, in honor or dishonor, to the latest generation...We shall nobly save, or meanly lose, the last, best hope of earth. The way is plain, peaceful, generous, just—a way which, if followed, the world will for ever applaud, and God must for ever bless."

—Abraham Lincoln—Message to Congress

While teaching religion in schools is controversial, few would quarrel with the most basic rules of living: the Ten Commandments. In the schools of Solvay Geddes, N. Y., a series of display cards list the message of the Commandments. Each card carries a different thought; each is displayed for a week in every classroom.—Pathfinder.

Two years ago he was promoted to the position of Superintendent of the Farm Department. In this capacity he is in charge of farm operations for ten states.

CARD, BUNCO PARTY TO AID
SCHMUHL SCH'L

The country school known as the Schmuhl school, between New Lenox and Mokena on Route 30, has become outgrown. A few years ago this school, which has stood at this location for a great many years, was remodeled and enlarged, but these changes were not quite enough to meet the demands caused by changes in the landscape.

About two years ago a new community, called Lincolnwood Hills, was established near the Schmuhl school, which used to have an enrollment of 12 pupils. Lincolnwood Hills started with about two or three families, but during the past two or three years about thirty homes have been built, which has increased the attendance from 12 to 44 considerably beyond the capacity of the school. To meet this condition it was necessary to open another room in the basement, and to hire another teacher.

All these changes have naturally strained the finances of the little school because, as our tax system is set up, it takes about two years for taxes to be spread on the books and apportioned before a school district such as this can derive the benefits from additional taxes. Meanwhile the school has found itself in a rather tight financial situation.

The residents of Lincolnwood Hills who have caused this strain on the little country school are most eager to relieve it any way they can, but payment of their taxes when due will not bring relief soon enough, and some of them have one or more children in this school and have not been here long enough to have received a tax bill. So, in order to help the school board out to get things badly needed in the school, the Community Club of the Schmuhl school district is sponsoring a card and bunco party to be held at the school this Saturday evening, February 14, starting at 8 o'clock. There will be prizes and refreshments will be served. The prizes have been donated by the business people in the surrounding area. Tickets can be purchased from any member of the club or at the door that evening.

Members of the committee and school workers got together Wednesday evening, February 11 to complete plans. They urge everyone to attend this affair for these reasons: in order to meet your neighbors, some of whom are new in the area; to have an enjoyable time, and to help in this worthy cause.

In another year or so, when all taxes have been apportioned, Mr. and Mrs. Teague on this school in Tinley Park, been relieved, and Mrs. Rapp will no longer be needed.

Two teachers take care of classes at the school, Mrs. Marie Mueller and Mrs. Roth, both of Joliet. Those on the committee working for the Card and Bunco party are Evelyn Myers and Mrs. Ione Stoner.

Frost Inside Barns Sign of Poor Ventilation

If frost collects on the inside walls or ceiling of your dairy or beef barn you have a ventilation problem that you should correct.

The animals that you keep in side the barn will be healthier with good ventilation and the building will provide years more service if it's kept dry in side, says J. T. Clayton, extension farm structures specialist at the Illinois College of Agriculture.

Air inside a "tight" barn housing livestock has a high moisture content because the animals are constantly giving off moisture. When this relatively warm, moist air contacts cold, uninsulated surfaces it condenses and forms frost if the surface is below freezing.

You can keep the frost out of barns by removing the moisture-laden air before the frost has a chance to form and replacing it with drier outside air. Use either ventilating fans to move the air, or open windows on the south or east sides of the building.

If you use a ventilating fan it is important that you use the right size and put it in the right place, Clayton points out. Your local power use adviser will be able to help you locate the fan and get the right size. One or two large openings will work best if you plan natural ventilation, but place them so that they will not set up cross currents and create drafts. You can control the air movement better if these openings have adjustable doors. You can cut down drafts if you put the openings only along one side of the building.

The number one problem in this area for farmers not only in 1953, but in years ahead is the care and maintenance of the soil on the farm you operate. The surface six inches of soil is our only natural resource and on it depends our own prosperity and that of our city friends. Someone has said that our soil is like a checking account at the bank, you cannot keep withdrawing funds without putting some back.

Your first step in an intelligent land use program is to get a soil test. Find out what your basic needs are for limestone, phosphate and potash. Too heavy applications are not only costly but getting minerals out of balance may cut down effectiveness of your program. Amounts of commercial fertilizer available are not high; and when you waste some, you are depriving your neighbor who needs it and is unable to obtain it.

Your next step is to plan a crop rotation using at least 25 per cent of the land in stand over legumes and grasses. If that is not possible, every one seeded to oats should have a clover patch crop to plow under. In order to increase income from hay and pasture, livestock may enter your program. Your needs of a rotation are great from the standpoint of soil fertility and for humus content. Humus added to soil increases its fertility, warmth, water holding capacity, and water absorbing capacity. Humus cannot be purchased in a sack of commercial fertilizer but is found in crop residue, green manures, and barnyard manure.

Your next step is to check washes on your farm by establishing grass waterways and contour planting where needed. PMA gives financial aid for these practices. Farm buying power has gone down 40% in the last ten years, being at its best in 1943. Falling farm profits challenges us to increase our efficiency on the individual farm. The best farms in the county produce twice the yields per acre of our poorer farms. Let's keep the production high on the goods farms and raise our standards on the poor farms. Let's farm each acre according to its productive capacity. Good land use practices could double our income from farming.

Soils and Crops Meeting Scheduled For February 17

Right now is the time of year when farmers are making plans for their spring work. Farmers want to know, "Should I use nitrogen, phosphate, or potash?" Do mixed fertilizers pay? Where and where should they apply all of these things?

Professor Roger Bray, of the Agronomy Department of the University of Illinois, will be in Will County for two meetings on Tuesday, Feb. 17.

His topic will be, "One Hundred Bushels of Corn Twice Over." Every farmer in the county probably wants the answer to this question. Bray developed the present soil testing procedure being used at the Will County Farm Bureau soil testing lab and other similar laboratories in the state.

Through his wide experience as a soil chemist, he is in excellent position to answer the many fertilizer questions now confronting farmers. What about liquid nitrogen? How does it compare to other nitrogen carriers? Do they pay? These are some of the problems he will discuss.

Bray will appear at the Community Building in Beecher at 10:00 a.m. that morning, and at the Ottawa Street Methodist church in Joliet that afternoon at 1:30.

Another big problem confronting Will County farmers is drainage. With the many soil types found in Will County, some say that tiling does not pay. Others say that it does. Does tile vary in quality?

Ben Muirhead from the Ag. Engineering department at Urbana, through the Will County Farm Bureau will help answer these problems. He will be at Joliet in the morning and at Beecher in the afternoon.

Soil Conditions Reduce Draft On Plow

Draft on the plow was reduced by about 25 percent on test plots at the Urban Experiment Station of the Illinois College of Agriculture where the soil had previously been treated with krlilum soil conditioner.

Since the plow pulled much easier, it was possible to save plowing time by traveling faster and to save fuel because of the lighter load, according to H. B. Bateman and G. E. Pickard, agricultural engineers at the college who conducted the tests.

Researchers also needed less time and power to prepare the seedbed, since the soil broke up into a mellow condition that was suitable for planting. Soil conditioners have the effect of preventing clods from forming at the time of plowing.

Surface soil on the treated plots also looked drier after rains last summer and fall than on untreated plots. However there was very little difference in soil moisture, according to the tests. The difference in drying rates was due to increased rate of evaporation rather than increased drainage.

Krlilum does not affect the soil below plow depth unless the soil at that depth has been actually treated. The conditioner does not leach downward.

The small increase in corn yields on the treated plots was not large enough to pay for the cost of treatment, Bateman and Pickard point out. There was less lodging, resulting in less loss at picking time.

Soil conditioners are still too expensive to be practical on farm fields, the engineers say. Rates of application on the test plots ranged from 500 to 2,000 pounds an acre. Small amounts of conditioner at present cost about $1.50 a pound. If you want to try some, use a small amount of it in our garden, greenhouse or on your lawn.

$25,000 Snappy Turtle Cookies

CHICAGO COP'S WIFE COPS PRIZE—Mrs. Peter S. Harlib, wife of a Chicago cop, earned $25,000, the title of Cook of The Year, 1952, and many GE appliances when her recipe for "Snappy Turtle Cookies" won the Pillsbury National Bake-off at the Waldorf Astoria. Here in the presence of Mrs. Pillsbury and a tray of the cookies, she receives the big check from Mrs. Richard M. Nixon, wife of the vice-president-elect.

The $25,000 Recipe

 1/4 teaspoon soda
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup butter or margarine

 3. Add eggs and egg yolk; beat well.
 4. Blend in flavoring. Add dry ingredients gradually; mix thoroughly.
 5. Arrange split pecan halves (rounded side up) in groups of three on greased baking sheets to resemble head and legs of a turtle.
 6. Mold dough into balls (use rounded teaspoonful of dough for each). Dip bottom into egg white and press onto nuts.
 7. Bake at 350° F. for 10 to 12 minutes. Do not overbake. Cool and frost top generously.

Changes Plea In Driving Charge

Robert Hauser, 18, who lives east of Frankfort, and who had previously pleaded guilty to a reckless driving charge in County court, withdrew his plea of guilty last Saturday and pleaded innocent. He had previously asked to be allowed probation. The withdrawal of the guilty plea was made through Attorney Francis Loughran.

Timely Tips

While much is being said and done about the mounting accidents on our highways, the home presumed a haven of security, still presents many major perils. Accident prevention in the home begins with caution, especially if there are little children.
 Don't let the tots play freely in the kitchen, particularly when you are busy cooking. Put them in a high chair or play pen; or, if they are older, let them play in their room. Warn the youngsters of the dangers of electricity, and be sure all electrical appliances are placed far from reach of the bath tub.
 Cooking over the kitchen range in a frilly costume may result in a serious, perhaps fatal burn. It only takes a wisp of fabric to attract fire. These are but a few of the precautions. The old rule—"An ounce of prevention" though trite, is still a wise old adage to follow.

Handy Jim's EXIN-UP TIPS For Farm and Home

It's Desk or Dresser!
 DON'T let the high cost of furniture prevent your having a desk or dressing table! By following a free plan, you can build one that will serve as either. The plan also describes construction of a three-legged stool, in the event you want a dressing table.
 Features of this piece are the removable top, the drawers without pulls, and the durable, smooth surfaces—

Masonite Tempered Presdwood. An interesting alternative, for the top, is Masonite Leatherwood, the embossed hardwood which makes an unusually attractive surface for a dresser. Leatherwood is stain and burn-resistant.
 As shown in the illustration, this desk-or-dressing table is neat and modern. The cost of materials used in its construction is comparatively small. The plan is easy to follow, too. It may be obtained free by writing to Home Service Bureau, Suite 2039, 111 West Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill., and requesting Drawing No. AE-170.

Plans of Cathedral
Of St. Raymond
Nonnatus, Joliet

The Cathedral of St. Raymond Nonnatus at Joliet according to plans will seat 1150 persons on the main floor and 180 in the gallery. Every seat will give a clear and unobstructed view of the sanctuary, the throne, and the pulpit. The main auditorium will have an arched ceiling rising to a height of 70 feet to provide a harmony of height and depth and also to provide adequate ventilation. The apse (or sanctuary) will be larger than that of an ordinary church so that the more elaborate episcopal ceremonies can take place without any inconvenience. To visualize the interior, one must keep in mind the idea of a cathedral since the color scheme throughout emphasizes the fact that the edifice is the principal church of the diocese. The choice of interior materials gives additional emphasis to the type of structure. There will be a harmonious balance of structure and decoration to accentuate each other and thus blend into a perfect effect. The following description may help to picture the variety of color which will ornament the design, which is a modernization of design based on conventional Greek classic lines.

The predominant color of the interior will be green, since that is the church's rubric color for a bishop. The outstanding feature will be the main altar, rising to a height of 36 feet and framed in a striking black and white grand antique marble. Against the reredos of the altar will hang a black marble crucifix 15 feet high with a heroic figure of Christ in flesh colored marble. A miter panel of Rose Breccia marble will serve as a background for the entire crucifix.

The entire room will be faced with a marble wainscot of Alps green contrasted by supporting pilasters of a deeper Vermont green. This wainscot will be relieved with vari-colored niches to receive the side altars and the various shrines, all of which will be framed in different imported marbles. The surfaces above the wainscot will be painted in seven graduated shades of green.

The space within the arch over the high altar and the adjacent wall panels will be finished in saffron, with a wheat and grape motif emphasized in gold leaf. (Wheat and grape represent the bread and wine used at mass.) The other wall panels of the apse will be overlaid with a heavy stencil of gold leaf. The canopies over the altar and the throne will be of wood, also finished in gold leaf. All interior woodwork will be American walnut finished in its natural color.

The beauty of the sanctuary will be heightened by a brilliantly colored marble floor. The communion rail will be of grand antique marble to match the altar, but will be lightened by substandards of Red Verona and Porta Santa. The aisles of the cathedral will be paved with a green flint Maubeuge (France) tile.

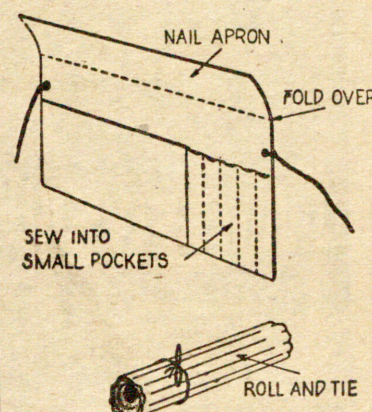

Daylight lighting of the cathedral has been accomplished through the large windows which will be of colored antique glass designed in the medallion type and executed mostly in pastel colors in order to harmonize with the light colored interior.

The lighting will be set flush with the ceiling and will be arranged to spotlight the important locations and to give an impressive brilliance to the magnificence of every part of the Cathedral. When required, additional concealed lighting will illuminate the interior brilliantly and impressively.

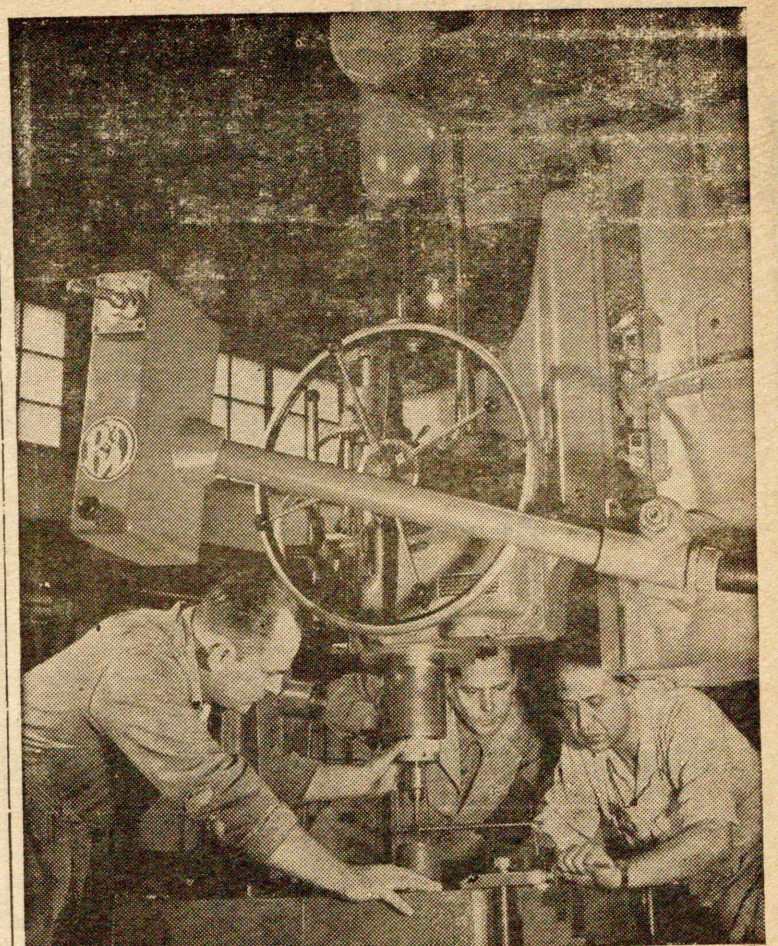

Apron for Brace Bits

THE home craftsman can take a cue from a professional carpenter whose apron (see illustration) for brace bits was described in American Builder, a highly-regarded trade magazine. It will be found handier for carrying brace bits on the job than a cumbersome tool box. Made from a nail apron, the pocket should be sewed into a series of small pockets to receive the bits. The upper portion of the apron is used as a flap, as illustrated. When folded into a neat roll, it can be tied by the strings of the apron.

Part of a jet engine is born on a huge precision boring machine as toolroom employees of Ford Motor Company's Aircraft Engine Division in Chicago check a new gauge which must be accurate within one thousandth of an inch. The gauge will be used to check production parts for the new J-57 turbo-jet which Ford is to make for the Air Force. Toolmakers, gauge makers and other skilled tradesmen are working overtime six days a week to keep the plant's defense program on schedule. Left to right are Bernard Jezercak, machine operator; Walter Zels, supervisor, and Stanley Gembala, gauge maker.

KEATON COMEDY TO BE FEATURED AT JOHN DEERE DAY PROGRAM

Highlights
Full Program
for Farm Families

Buster Keaton, long famed as a comedian of stage and screen, stars in "Paradise for Buster" the feature film that highlights the John Deere Day program to be given for farmers and their families Monday, February 16 by Bettenhausen Implement, local John Deere dealer at Bettenhausen & Schults Motor Sales, Tinley Park. The program, which is free, includes a complete list of entertaining and educational pictures in full color. It is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

A feature-length comedy, "Paradise for Buster" is the story of a would-be bookkeeper with a rare skill for incurring the merciless wrath of the company "boss". So well does Buster exercise his special talent that finally he and the chairman of the board reach the loud and unanimous decision that the firm and the world in general will benefit by Buster's removal from the pay roll. And so it happens, but not before Buster falls heir to a farm left him by his uncle, Burr McKeaton, a situation that gives him a new feeling of independence which he asserts at the painful expense of the bewildered "boss". With the farm, Buster also inherits more than a dog's share of troubles, and his stumbling fumbling struggle for survival provides a story that will delight young and old alike.

The Gordon Family Returns
Tom Gordon, indomitable head of the friendly Gordon family and a favorite of John Deere Day audiences for several years, rides again in the full-color picture "Tom Gordon Goes Modern." In this story Tom once more musters his limitless supply of stubbornness to provide his wife and son with their usual share of anxious moments and to try to the limit the patience of all he meets. But with all his resistance, Tom is still no match for the rest of the family. This picture tells the inside story of the new John Deere Models "50" and "60" Tractors.

Additional Full-Color Films
In addition to "Paradise for Buster" and "Tom Gordon Goes Modern" several other films described by Mr. Bettenhausen as certain to interest farmers and their families will be shown. Among these is "Oddities in Farming," a film that reveals rare practices employed in specialized fields of farming seldom witnessed by most farmers. Some of these practices are so peculiar to a particular locale that they are applied only in the instances shown in this film, according to Mr. Bettenhausen. This year's "Oddities" will include cranberry harvesting scenes, flower seed harvesting, walnut harvesting in California and lettuce harvesting in the nation's salad bowl.

"What's New"

In his announcement, Mr. Bettenhausen lists "What's New for 1953" as a continuation of series that always proves interesting to all farmers. This film presents a complete lineup of new John Deere equipment that will be available for the coming year and includes scenes showing the equipment in the field as well as details of outstanding features.

According to Mr. Bettenhausen, admission to the John Deere Day program will be by ticket only. An invitation is extended to all farmers who have not as yet received their tickets, or who need more, to pick them up at Bettenhausen Imp., Tinley Park. There is no charge for tickets.

Know Your Heart

Heart disease kills more than 600,000 people each year in the United States. At least eight times this number, over 5 million people are forced to change their ways of living to cater to diseased hearts.

Heart disease is a convenient term used to cover a multitude of different diseases, most of which are quite unrelated except as they all involve the heart or blood vessels.

The most common types of heart disease are those associated with infections, especially rheumatic fever and syphilis; or with high blood pressure, or with diseases of the coronary arteries. Other less common but important types are caused by defects present in the heart or blood vessels at birth, (congenital defects), or by over activity or under activity of the thyroid gland.

It is important to realize that the heart may be innocent of causing many of the feelings of discomfort which are frequently blamed on it. The cavity of the chest and the upper part of the abdomen, which is separated from the chest by only a thin sheet of muscle, are packed tightly with organs. Any extra pressure such as gas in the stomach, or small intestine, for example, may give rise to a pain in the chest with which the heart has nothing whatsoever to do. On the other hand, any discomfort in the chest which is directly related to exertion or excitement should be a signal to consult a physician.

The heart may act queerly at times without anything being wrong with it. Common, but annoying, experiences of this kind are skipped beats, palpitation (consciousness of the heart beat) and very rapid beating of the heart. Noticeable misbehavior of the heart, which may make you think you have heart trouble, should always be investigated by a physician. If the physician, after a careful examination, says there is nothing wrong with your heart—believe him! Many people make themselves miserable by continuing to think that they have heart disease, even after one or more physicians have told them their hearts are sound.

There are a few symptoms which should always be investigated, because they indicate the need of medical attention whether they are due to heart trouble or not. One of the symptoms is shortness of breath when at rest or on exertion which has not previously caused breathlessness. Shortness of breath associated with moderate exertion may be an early symptom of a weakened heart muscle. Swelling of the feet and ankles is another early sign of possible heart weakness. When the circulation is slowed up because the heart fails to pump with the customary vigor, fluid may gather in the tissues and cause swelling which is first noticed in the feet and ankles.

Rheumatic heart disease nearly always begins in childhood between the ages of 6 and 12 as the result of one or more attacks of rheumatic fever. Many cases of rheumatic heart disease in adults can be traced to a partly forgotten or mild attack of rheumatic fever in childhood.

The exact cause of rheumatic fever, which plays such havoc with young hearts, is not clear. The solution to the whole puzzle is now one of the chief objectives of medical research. Just as a lighted match starts a fire in kindling already laid in a stove or fireplace, so an attack of disease caused by germs of the streptococcus family—for example tonsillitis, scarlet fever or a streptococcal cold—often sets off rheumatic fever in a child or young adult who is susceptible to it. Unfortunately one attack of rheumatic fever makes a child more susceptible, rather than immune, to further attacks. Repeated attacks are more likely to damage the heart.

The earliest symptoms of rheumatic fever may be slight fever, nosebleeds, loss of appetite, failure to gain weight, and pain in the joints and muscles. The uncontrollable twitching or jerking of the face, arms, or legs commonly known as St. Vitus dance, is sometimes a sign of rheumatic fever. This disease may attack all parts of the heart. In some cases it clears up with little or no difficulty. But commonly it leaves scars in the endocardium (the membrane which lines the heart) which may interfere with the working of one or more of the valves of the heart. By following the advice of the physician with regard to work and play, individuals with rheumatic heart disease, where heart have not been too severely damaged, may lead productive and normal or near normal lives.

Prompt and continuing medical care during attacks of rheumatic fever is essential, and good nursing care is of the utmost importance. The child must be kept in bed during the active stage of this disease in order to give the heart the rest it requires, to make as good a recovery as is possible. The physician is the one to say when the child may get up and how active he may be as he returns to normal living.

The best, but not absolutely certain protection against recurrences, is periodic medical supervision with emphasis on the proper balance between rest and activity, good nutrition, and protection from respiratory infection.

For other interesting facts about heart disease, be sure to listen to "The Heart of America" over radio station WJOI every Friday at 11:30 a.m.

Tests Show What Legumes Can Do For Corn Yields

Recent tests at University of Illinois soil experiment fields are continuing to prove that corn yields can be increased a third or more by growing legumes on your land once every four years.

D. L. Mulvaney, agronomist in the College of Agriculture, reports that tests have been made for nearly 30 years at several fields to learn what effect legumes alone would have on corn yields.

For the 4 year period 1949, 52 at the Aledo soil experiment field in Mercer county, use of legumes increased the yield from 62 to 85 bushels per acre, or an average increase of 23 bushels.

During the same period, yields were raised from 50 to 76 bushels at the Hartsburg field in Logan county, and from 56 to 84 bushels at the Minonk experiment field in Woodford county. The average increase for the three locations was nearly 26 bushels per acre.

These results are averages for four fields at each location. Corn-corn-oats-alfalfa rotations were used, and no other soil treatment was applied.

When other plant foods, such as lime and phosphate, were added to grow better legumes, the 1949-52 average corn yields were raised to 114 bushels at Aledo, 103 at Hartsburg and 101 at Minonk.

State 4H Staff Member To Work In India

Miss Florence A. Kimmelschue member of the state 4-H home economics club staff since 1937 reported February 1 of two years of work on the staff of the Allahabad Agricultural Institute in India.

In India, Miss Kimmelschue's job emphasis will be on teaching girls who attend the institute to carry their home economics training out to the women in the Indian villages. This training will follow the present system of home economics extension work being carried on in this country and being developed in India and other countries.

Miss Kimmelschue expects that her home economics teaching will be different in India from what it has been in the United States, with more emphasis on sanitation and nutrition. Allahabad, location of the institute, is situated about halfway between Calcutta and New Delhi, on the Ganges river. Students at the institute speak English, so there will be no language barrier there.

A native of Manteno in Will county, Miss Kimmelschue helped to organize the first rural girls' club that was supervised by state extension people in Illinois in 1912. This organization was the forerunner of today's 4-H home economics clubs which were started about 1914.

In that early club's second year, Miss Kimmelschue became its leader. She attended Monmouth college, later receiving her A. B. degree from the University of Illinois and a master's degree from the University of Chicago. She has also taken post-graduate work in dietetics at St. Luke's hospital in Chicago.

She taught high school home economics in Indiana and Illinois for nine years. She was assistant home adviser in Kankakee county and home adviser in Lake county for five years. Since joining the state 4-H staff, she has specialized in 4-H clothing training schools. She has also been serving as 4-H home economics club supervisor for the northern 20 counties of Illinois.

No Favorites

Lesson for February 15, 1953

NOBODY loves a "teacher's pet." No teacher should have one; just as no father or mother should have a "pet" child. We all feel that everybody should be treated alike. And yet, strange to say, when it comes to religion, many a person who wouldn't be a teacher's pet for anything, will believe and hope that he is one of God's pets. All of us have this wish at times. We like to feel that God won't deal with us strictly, that he will let down the rules for us a little. We like to think of ourselves as special cases, we like to feel we have the inside track, or the "pipeline to God." But it won't do. God has no special favorites.

Fatal Mistake

It is a fatal mistake to think that God is bound to look out for ME, no matter what. In the time of Jesus, the leaders of his people thought God was just bound to give them the front seats in his kingdom. For one thing, those Jewish leaders were proud of their ancestors. On their family tree were men like Abraham, Samuel, Moses, David and countless other good and noble people. The aristocrats of Jesus' time thought: Since we belong to the same family as those who have served God so well, surely God will show US special favors! But God does not grant special privileges merely on account of a family tree. There are people today who will tell you: "Yes, my people for three generations have belonged to this church. My great-grandfather helped to build it. My good old mother just about wore her Bible out—I could show you if I could find it around somewhere."

But Jesus did not hold out any hope that you can secure a seat by the Throne on Abraham's ticket, or your dear old grandmother's, or any one else who happens to be high on your family tree. Then for another thing, those stuffed-shirt Pharisees thought God owed them something because of the positions they held. They had the front seats in the synagogues; every one got up when they came in. They seem to have got the idea that even God would get up when they arrived in heaven. But Jesus gave no encouragement to that notion either.

Promises "If—"

Another reason why these prominent men thought they had a sort of first mortgage on the Kingdom of Heaven was that they misunderstood the promises of God. Many promises of blessings, wonderful blessings, had been made to the people of Israel by prophet after prophet. These promises are still to be read in the Old Testament. Where the chief priests and all that crowd made their mistake was at two points. One: they supposed that these were promises "no matter what," promises without conditions, without any strings attached. God would give Israel all these blessings, they reasoned; they belonged to Israel, therefore they would share the blessings.

Not at all; Jesus tells them straight out that the kingdom is to be taken away from them and given to a "nation producing the fruits of it." What nation? That promise is still good, but no nation, group or people or race or church can claim it absolutely and finally. The "kingdom," with God's highest blessings, can belong to England or Japan or the United States or Ethiopia—IF. They are offered and promised to any nation that will produce the fruits. Does ours?

Christ or Chaos

Again these men were mistaken in supposing they could claim God's blessings and yet reject God's Son. The basic trouble with those big men of Jerusalem, and the people they influenced, was that they did not want Jesus. They did not want him, his ideas, his leadership; they had no notion at all of his sacrifice. Living or dying they had no use for him... and so they perished. Those who reject the living Grace of God have to suffer the consequences. Christ is still the test of community and nation. The people who welcome him, live by him, have enduring life. The kind of people who turn him away and try to destroy what he gave his life for, will themselves be destroyed. The epitaph of all wrecked nations could well be the same: Here lie the wretched remains of a people that had no use for God. To reject Christ is to choose chaos.

Boosting Production Per Acre Is Key to Higher Farm Profits

THE road to high farm profits is via high crop yields per acre. That was the statement of Dr. Garth Volk, chairman of the Ohio State University's agronomy department.

"In farming," said Dr. Volk, "there is no substitute for efficiency. It's the unit cost of production that usually determines whether there is any profit at all and how much."

"With the exception of seed and fertilizer, most of the cost items necessary to grow and harvest a crop remain about the same regardless of the final yield. Thus anything that raises the yield at a nominal cost reduces the cost of production per unit. Fertilizers do just that."

Dr. Volk reported that fertilizers costing $13 in one Ohio test boosted the value of the crop yields by $52.20, a return of $4.02 for each dollar invested in fertilizer. In two other tests, fertilizers costing $22 and $24 boosted the value of crop yields by $61.64 and $69.08, paying back $2.80 and $2.88 respectively for each $1 invested in fertilizer.

"There's no doubt about the fact that one of the major sources of profit in farming lies in pushing up production per acre," Dr. Volk added. "In fact, one of the best ways that a farmer can make a profit when prices are low is to grow big yields and thus reduce the unit production cost."

Farm Economists Call Fertilizer Good Buy Predict More Demand

MICHIGAN State College agricultural economists report that fertilizer is still one of the best buys farmers can make.

These specialists predict that fertilizer supplies will be tight again in 1953—particularly nitrogen. So they advise farmers to order their plant food early to be sure of having it on hand when they need it for seeding operations next spring. The fertilizer can be safely stored on the farm during the winter months.

The economists report that more fertilizer will be produced in 1953 than was the case in 1952. Estimates indicate that there will be 12 per cent more nitrogen, 10 per cent more phosphate and 19 per cent more potash.

But that does not mean fertilizer will be easy to get, they say. Actually, greater use of plant food by farmers will offset the increases. So the demand may be greater than the supply.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Just a Little "Outdated"

Back in December we sent out our yearly calendar. It listed the last date for renewing drivers' licenses, and things like the dates for registering to vote, when the hunting and fishing seasons open — even suggested you note down the wife's birthday, too.

I figured dates like these were important to keep in mind—and this was a good way to do it. Unfortunately, it now turns out I never really paid close attention to my own calendar!

Not 'til today that is — so here I am not able to drive the car this weekend until I get my driver's license renewed on Monday!

From where I sit, I guess good advice, like charity, should begin at home. I'm always advising all of you to worry less about your neighbors (what they do, or say, and whether or not they should enjoy a temperate glass of beer) and pay more attention to whether you yourself are doing the right thing. Guess I'll "make a note" to follow my own formula!
